Summary

The current plan was adopted in 2011. Lorenzo Independent School District is in Lubbock and Crosby Counties. In 2010, Lubbock County had a population of 278,831. The 2020 Census redistricting data shows the population of Lubbock County currently to be 310,639. This is a 10% gain, an increase which has slowed from the previous decade. Crosby County had a population of 6,059 in 2010 and the 2020 census is reporting the population is now 5,133. This is a loss of 15% and is the same loss when compared to the last decade.

The population in Lorenzo ISD has migrated in all districts. District 5 had the only population gain and District 3 had the largest loss. The populations in those districts are above the recommended maximum deviation from the ideal population. However, the overall population of the district has decreased by 15%.

There are no jails or prisons within Slaton ISD.

Application of the 2020 data will provide total voting populations by race and ethnicity for the entire district. The individual districts will be constructed to be as compact as possible, while still adhering to redistricting standards.
